and 40 miles. After the timber has been secured, from six to eight logs are lashed together into what is called a "pen." About seven of these pens are given to one man to guide down the river. At the mouth of the old river Mr. Thorne has an arrangement of his own contrivance by which the pens are carried directly into position without any trouble whatever. From three to eight days are consumed in travelling the distance. To give one some idea of the size and weight of these logs we will say that from 500 to 600 feet of sound lumber is gotten from every one of them. That is not including the "slabs" and "rough edge."

Mr. M. A. Ross has charge of this immense lumbering concern and he thoroughly understands every part of the business. Then too, Mr. Thorne has been in the lumber business for the past eight years, and right here in Kingstree, too, and he knows how to manage. He has not fully completed his new plant yet, but he hopes within the next 30 or 60 days to have everything finished up.

PREACHERS' SALARIES. How They Are Starved by Their Congregations.

A Methodist newspaper has ascertained that the average salary of preachers of that denomination in the south is only $473.35 a year. In this case the cent column usually omitted in stating salaries of professional men, is really important, for 25 cents have a deal of work to perform in a family compelled to subsist, or die on so meager compensation as that. The $473.35 a year gives about $1.30 a day. The average preacher's family consists of five persons. Allowing the munificent sum of $1 a day for rent, clothing, fuel, doctor bill and the numberless incidentals, we find 30 cents remaining on the table. This allows 10 cents a meal for breakfast, dinner and supper; or in other words two cent a head for father, mother and children. It will be seen that no part of the preacher's income goes for a servant hire. The wife of the clergyman, who is expected to take a leading part in religious and social work, and to entertain many callers, must do the housework, including washing and ironing. The Methodist paper that figured out the average salary of $473.35 has some pathetic comments on the thread bare coat of a clergyman thus situated and the "actual misery" it represents. The wonder that so many men can keep up even a semi-respectable appearance on such an allowance. If it be urged that thousands of working men support their families on less than that, we submit that the fact "has nothing to do with the case." Preachers cannot adopt the habits of the workingman. They must incur many expenses that are not in the account of wage earners engaged in manual labor. Those for whom preachers work are presumed to believe that such work is of vital importance. They expect good sermons and a faithful performance of pastoral duties. And yet they do not pay for half of what they expect. If the era of prosperity does not bring an increase in the compensation of those ministers it will miss one of the fields in which it will be greatly needed.—Washington Post.

Report About Tillman.

A Washington special to the Richmond Times says that a South Carolinian had told the correspondent that Senator Tillman will not be seen in the senate chamber any more, as he has a fatal malady—Bright's disease. This will be news at home. The senator has been quite ill, but when he left here the other day, he was looking quite well and was very buoyant in spirits.—Columbia Register.

Some of Sam Jones' Sayings.

I had rather sleep with a wet dog than a man who smokes cigars.

There are members of the church in this town who would not bring 10 cents a dozen at any market in this or any other world.

A man will go to church and put in a nickel and say: "Here goes the widow's mite." Whoever saw a widow in duck breeches.

There is more in example than in precept. The big crawfish said to the little crawfish: Let me see you crawl backwards." The little crawfish said, "Dad let me see you hit the lick first."

A man who will curse before his children couldn't run in my back yard with the hogs.

There is lots of difference between a gentleman and a hog. I could get a jug of liquor and the press dispatches would have it all over the country before morning; you could get one and nobody will know it.

If you will God will; and if you won't the devil will.

Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic is a ONE-DAY Cure. It cures the most stubborn case of Fever in 24 Hours.

Thomas & Bradham will be found at their old stand in Kings tree from Oct. 1st with a nice lot of horses ready to fill the wants of their friends and patrons. We will also be ready to collect for stock sold last season. We expect to do some business here and will sell at a price to insure satisfaction. Thanking our friends for past favors and assuring them that we can do better by them than ever before, we solicit an early call.

THOMAS & BRADHAM.

JOHNSON'S CHILL AND FEVER TONIC

Cures Fever
In One Day.

Live bees are sometimes shipped on ice so as to keep them dormant during the journey. This is particularly the case with bumblebees which have been taken to New Zealand, where they are useful in fertilizing the red clover which has been introduced into the colony.

If you are passed learning from the experience of others, stay away from the State Fair.

Quinine and other fever medicines take from 5 to 10 days to cure fever. Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic cures in ONE DAY.

Bill Nye

Often spoke his witticisms laden with the greatest truths. Among the most noticeable, most Ny-ish and most apropos is the following. A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; ride on the back of the train to save interest on his money until the conductor comes around stops his watch at night to save the ware and tear; leave his "j" and "t" without a dot or cross to save his ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this kind is a gentleman and a scholar compared with fellow who will take a newspaper, and when asked to pay for it, puts it into the post office and has it marked "Refused."

The Page Woven Wire Fence.

Sample of this fencing and post can be seen at the cemetery at Kingstree, S. C. also the same fencing on wooden posts at the late S. P. Brockington's.

Is considered the best and cheapest of all fences. Where introduced, they are taking the place of ALL other fencing. It is strong and durable—lasting a life time. This company manufactures several grades of fencing, running from 7 to 25 wires, thus making a fence that is rabbit-tight. They also manufacture ornamental fencing for yards, &c. Orders are respectfully solicited. Any information desired will be gladly furnished by the undersigned.
